

DELIVERING SMARTER TRAVEL

Stagecoach is committed to delivering greater convenience for its bus and rail customers through the delivery of smart ticketing options. The Group has its own smart ticketing scheme called StagecoachSmart which allows customers to store their travel electronically on a smartcard.

More than 240million smart transactions are made each year on Stagecoach's bus and rail services.

Stagecoach is also involved in projects with other operators and external partners to deliver multi-modal, multi-operator smart ticketing in the UK.

Where is smart ticketing available?

Our StagecoachSmart scheme is available at virtually all of our regional bus companies. It is also live on East Midlands Trains, South West Trains and Stagecoach Supertram.

In London, passengers using our buses –and our South West Trains services – can pay using contactless payments and Oyster cards.

Across the UK, all of our bus companies accept concessionary smartcards . And in Cambridgeshire we are continuing to trial Near-Field Communication (NFC) technology which would allow customers to store their bus travel on a mobile phone.

What is StagecoachSmart?

StagecoachSmart enables Stagecoach bus, rail and tram customers to store their travel electronically on a smartcard, meaning they no longer need a paper ticket. Tickets are stored on the card and new travel can be loaded on either online, at rail ticket vending machines or on board the bus.

What are the benefits of StagecoachSmart?

Customers with StagecoachSmart travel cards can save time, and often money. Through StagecoachSmart, bus passengers can renew their travel through hassle-free automatic monthly payments through our Megarider Xtra product.

There is also better protection for StagecoachSmart customers who have registered their cards, should the card get lost or stolen while it has valid travel stored on it.
